

Special Olympics North Carolina will address health risks facing individuals with intellectual disabilities by reaching out to and engaging them in a behavioral shift to improve their overall health. The program incorporates physical activities, health screenings, wellness education, and weight loss intervention activities. Funding will help provide equipment and education in collaboration with community partners.